

Crossing State Lines to Graduate

On average, 15.1 percent of all U.S. postsecondary students who received undergraduate degrees in 2010-11 had previously attended college in at least one other state or territory. As shown in the map at right, for each state and territory, the National Student Clearinghouse Research Center has identified the percentage of undergraduate degree completers in the 2010-11 academic year who had prior enrollments† in at least one other state or territory. The median per state/territory was 18.4 percent.

The 2010-11 Undergraduate Interstate Mobility Index with individual state and territory information is available at www.studentclearinghouse.org/snapshot.

With data current through Summer 2011

Interstate Mobility of Students Awarded an Undergraduate Degree in 2010-11*

